

Assistant / Associate Professor in Marriage, Couple, and Family Therapy (tenure-track)
Department of Counseling, Therapy, and School Psychology
Graduate School of Education and Counseling
Lewis & Clark College

The Department of Counseling, Therapy, and School Psychology in the Graduate School of Education and Counseling at Lewis and Clark College invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty appointment at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in the Marriage, Couple, and Family Therapy program, beginning in September 2022.

The department offers MA and MS degrees in Marriage, Couple, and Family Therapy. The program offers optional tracks in Addictions, Ecopsychology, and Sex Therapy. We provide an integrated training curriculum focused on systemic/ecological practices and grounded in the values of diversity, social equity, and global citizenship. We are looking for a colleague to share our vision, values, and perspectives, and to contribute to our work within and across disciplines.

We seek applicants who have a family and couple therapy training background, evidence of effectiveness as an instructor, demonstrated potential for scholarly productivity, knowledge of COAMFTE accreditation standards, a commitment to developing social equity within and outside the program, and the ability to work collaboratively with program and graduate school faculty. We encourage applications from those who have experience and interest in working with gender identity/expression, LGBTQ+ issues in family therapy, and sex therapy.

Responsibilities

- Teach graduate courses in Marriage, Couple and Family Therapy.
- Provide supervision to student interns at the L&C Community Counseling Center.
- Advance a scholarly agenda leading to publication.
- Collaborate on curriculum and program development.
- Serve on various departmental and school-wide committees.
- Participate in professional development activities and community service.
- Advocate for the marriage, couple, and family therapy profession locally, regionally, and nationally.
- Share responsibilities for program assessment and accreditation.

Required Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in MFT or closely related field (by August 2022).
- Demonstrated excellence in graduate level teaching, including evidence of culturally relevant, democratic, and inclusive teaching philosophy and practices.
- Ability to teach a range of courses, including courses in equity in MFT, sex therapy, couple therapy, and diagnosis of mental and emotional disorders.
- Demonstrated potential for scholarly productivity and a strong research agenda.
- Oregon-licensed MFT or eligible.
- AAMFT approved supervisor/supervisor-in-training or supervisor eligible.
- Strong background in systemic thinking and broad knowledge of family therapy theories, including the family and larger systems intersection.
- Commitment to developing critical and decolonizing approaches to family therapy

- and family therapy training.
- Significant clinical experience.
- Knowledge of COAMFTE accreditation standards.
- Evidence of being a collaborative colleague seeking to be actively engaged in social justice-focused marriage, couple, and family training.

To Apply

Review of applications will begin on January 3, 2022, and will continue until the position is filled. To apply, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/98254>, click Apply Now, and submit the following:

- A letter of interest addressing the qualifications and responsibilities noted in this posting and describing your teaching and scholarship interests.
- A current curriculum vitae.
- Samples of teaching evaluations.
- 1-3 samples of scholarship.
- Graduate transcripts.
- Three confidential letters of recommendation with contact phone numbers (at least one reference should be able to address the applicant's commitment to, experience with, and potential for working with diverse student and community populations).

Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist(s).
