

Michael Bullis is the Sommerville-Knight Professor in the College of Education at the University of Oregon and faculty in the Department of Educational Methodology, Policy, and Leadership. Dr. Bullis received his Ph.D. at the University of Oregon in 1983 in Special Education and Rehabilitation, specializing in research methods. Since 1986, he has been awarded and managed 38 externally funded federal and state evaluation contracts, research, and model demonstration projects – totaling more than $22 million. His scholarship focused on community-based job placement and support procedures for adolescents and young adults with high risk behaviors, including those individuals leaving the correctional system or the mental health system. He has more than 150 professional publications. He has served on the editorial boards of the Journal of Emotional and Behavioral Disorders and Rehabilitation Counseling Bulletin and is the former co-editor of Career Development for Exceptional Individuals.

From 2005-13 Dr. Bullis was the Dean of the College of Education. He oversaw the College's $50+ million building and renovation project and more than doubled the number of tenure track faculty. During the time he was Dean, the College accounted for roughly one third of the University of Oregon's external funding portfolio and three graduate programs were named among the top five nationally in those respective areas.
